TERMINOLOGY USED IN THIS GUIDE

The Graduate School of Arts & Sciences, whose offices are located at 157 Umrath Hall, is referred to throughout this guide as the Graduate School.

The Thesis Examination Committee is composed of three tenured or tenure-track members of the Washington University faculty, including the faculty member who directed the thesis. Exceptions must be approved by the Dean of the Graduate School. Dean Smith requests that you seek such approval by emailing Associate Dean Nancy Pope at n.p.pope@wustl.edu. University College students should consult Associate Dean Steven Ehrlich with regard to their committee members before seeking Dean Pope's approval.

The Thesis Examination Committee is usually comprised of the same three faculty that are listed on the Title, Scope, and Procedure form as the "Research Advisory Committee." Please note: The Thesis Approval Form must also be signed by the chair of the department or program in addition to the committee members.

The thesis examination is sometimes called the thesis defense, the oral defense, or the oral examination. This guide will always use the term thesis examination.

PRELIMINARY PAPERWORK

There are two forms that need to be filed with the Graduate School well before the completion of your thesis and the scheduling of your thesis examination:

1. The Title, Scope, and Procedure form (titled “Notice of Title, Scope, and Procedure of Thesis”) is to be filed with the Graduate School no later than one semester before your thesis examination. Forms are available from the Graduate School and from your department or program office.

Your project's "scope" defines its limits—what you intend to cover and what you intend not to cover. Your "procedure" describes the manner in which you intend to conduct your research. By defining the scope and procedure of your thesis, you provide an initial outline or model for yourself as you research your topic. The form also serves as a contract between you and your Research Advisory Committee.

It is understood that your thesis' scope, procedure, and even its title may change in the course of your research. You are not required to file an amended form with the Graduate School, although getting your committee's written approval of the changes may be advisable.

2. Candidates for a degree must file an Intent to Graduate form for the semester in which they intend to graduate. You may complete this form after logging onto WebSTAC and clicking on “Intent to Graduate” from the menu. If you are unable to access this form, please contact the Office of Student Records, whose contact information is included below. They will provide the form and can tell you the deadline for filing. Please note that, if you do not finish by the time you had originally stated in your first Intent to Graduate form, you must file a subsequent form for the semester in which you will complete your work.

You should make a note of the diploma pick-up and mailing dates on this form. It also includes your mailing address, which may change between the time you fill the form out and when you finish your work; therefore, you should contact the Office of Student Records any time you change addresses after filing this form.

The Office of Student Records is located in the lower level of the Women's Building.

GUIDELINES FOR THE FORMAT OF THE THESIS

1. Style. You should consult with your committee chair and other Research Advisory Committee members to determine the preferred textual arrangement and style, including the presentation of footnotes/endnotes and the manner in which references are to be cited.
2. Margins. When typing the original manuscript, stay well within these margin guides: left, 1.5 inches (this margin is extra-wide because of the binding process); right, 1 inch; top, 1 inch; bottom, 1 inch.
3. Pagination. Page numbers should appear centered at the bottom of the page. Margins, listed above, should be outside the page number. The number should be separated from the text by approximately .5 inch.

Every sheet of paper in the manuscript should be numbered except for two: the title page is not numbered (but is counted as the first page; see below), and the optional copyright page is neither numbered nor counted. Letter suffixes (e.g., 10a) may not be used.

Lower case Roman numerals are used for the preliminary pages, including the title page and acknowledgments page. Since the title page is counted but not numbered, "ii" is the first number used and appears on the page after the title and copyright pages.

Arabic numerals are used for all other manuscript pages. Begin with page number 1; pages with Arabic numerals should NOT continue numerically (e.g. from xii to 13).

4. All textual material should be double-spaced.
5. Font should not routinely be italic and should never be script or ornamental. Size should be equivalent to 10-point Arial or 12-point Times New Roman.
6. Long quotations should be indented and single-spaced unless your discipline prefers them to be indented and double-spaced.
7. Footnotes/endnotes should be single-spaced. Leave a blank line between notes.

The following items appear in the thesis in the order given:

8. The thesis should include a title page that conforms precisely to the sample and instructions in Appendix A.
9. Your thesis is protected by copyright laws with or without your giving notice of that fact. However, if you wish to include a copyright page, it should appear as an unnumbered page immediately following the title page. The copyright page should have the following information, centered and double-spaced:

copyright by

[full name of author]

[year of degree awarded]

10. An Acknowledgments page may be included. In the final copy, it should be placed between the title page (or copyright page, if there is one) and the table of contents. The dedication, if there is one, may close the acknowledgments or occupy the next page.

Note: If your graduate study or thesis research has been supported financially, you must acknowledge that support.

11. The thesis should include a Table of Contents if the thesis has subdivisions. It should include items 10 – 15, as needed.
12. If the thesis contains tables, figures, illustrations, etc., a List of Tables (Figures, Illustrations, etc.) should be included, immediately following the Table of Contents. [Note that such pictorial material may be laid out either vertically, like the text of the thesis, or horizontally, with its bottom edge the outside edge of the page.]
13. The thesis may begin with an epigraph (a quotation from someone else's work); if there is an epigraph, it should appear on page 1 of the thesis, with the thesis text beginning on page 2. If the epigraph pertains only to the first chapter, it should appear between the chapter title and the chapter text.
14. The thesis should include a Bibliography or References or Works Cited section. Although this section is usually placed at the conclusion of the entire thesis, in some cases it may be appropriate to list sources at the end of each chapter. The Table of Contents should clearly indicate where references are located.

PRESENTATION OF COMPLETED THESIS TO THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Beginning in summer 2009 theses must be submitted electronically. Once you have successfully defended your thesis, please visit <http://library.wustl.edu/services/thesisguidelines.html> for information and instructions on submitting your thesis electronically. Your thesis must be received by the deadline. For more information on deadlines, please refer to the academic calendar which can be found online at <http://artsci.wustl.edu/GSAS/Calendars/eventsdeadlines.html>. Please plan to submit your thesis before the deadline as you may need to make corrections to your format.

In addition to your electronically submitted thesis, the Graduate School also needs your MASTER'S THESIS APPROVAL FORM (the original, not a photocopy) signed by members of the Thesis Examination Committee. Check with your department as to whether you need to carry this form to the Graduate School yourself or whether your department will be responsible for submitting it.

SUBMISSION OF PAPER COPIES FOR BINDING

Your degree program has decided how many bound copies it wants to purchase. Before making paper copies of your thesis for binding, please check to see whether your program is requiring you to have a copy bound to stay at the University. Some programs are paying the fee to have one copy made for and sent to you. If you are in a program that is not paying the fee, you will need to bring $10 cash for any copy you want to have bound for your own use.

To submit your thesis on paper for binding, you need to put each copy in its own large heavy-duty envelope with a short title sheet taped on the outside of the envelope. Bring your envelope(s) to the Nancy Buchanan in Graduate School offices in 157 Umrath Hall.

The short title sheet will be the binder's ticket. Mistakes on the sheet will be printed on the spine. The short title consists of the thesis title, your surname, your degree, and its year. Also indicate on this sheet special circumstances such as (a) material that will need to go into a pocket in the bound copy or (b) a thesis needing to be bound in two volumes.

The SHORT TITLE must be no longer than 35 characters. Any title longer than 35 characters will be truncated by the commercial bindery. The short title you devise for this purpose will appear only on the spine of the bound copy; it should be a reasonable abridgement of your thesis' full title.

APPENDIX A: TITLE PAGE INSTRUCTIONS AND SAMPLE

1. Give the correct name of the department or program in which you have been a student (e.g., Anthropology, Art History and Archaeology, Asian and Near Eastern Languages and Literatures, etc.). The formal, complete name of your department or program appears in the Graduate School Bulletin. Students earning their degrees through University College should include the name “University College” on the second line with the name of the program noted on the third line. Similarly, the MFA in Writing is granted by the Writing Program within the Department of English. In this case, the “Department of English” should be included on the second line, and “The Writing Program” noted on the third line.

2. Use your full name.
3. Master’s candidates in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences may earn any of several master’s degrees. Use the correct name of your degree in the paragraph between your name and the month and year of your degree. For example, Master of Arts, Master of Fine Arts in Writing, Master of Liberal Arts, etc.
4. Use the month and year in which your degree is to be awarded. Do not put a comma between the month and the year.

Please note that degrees are only conferred in December, May, and August; use one of these three on your title page. Also note that, if you complete your degree requirements in May but will be awarded your degree in August, your title page should say August, not May.

5. Center everything on the page. Everything not discussed above is required to appear just as shown in the sample on the facing page.
