Dear University College students:

I’m sending a quick note to confirm that you need to complete the Canvas module described below. The module takes about 10 minutes.

Students who are also university employees should complete the module, as well. Employees coming to campus for work or reporting a positive COVID test should follow employee, rather than student, protocols.

We’re happy you have enrolled in courses this spring and look forward to seeing you virtually on the 25th.

Best wishes,
Pat

Dear students,

An educational module, community pledge, and policy acknowledgment is required of students enrolled in Spring 2021 courses at Washington University in St. Louis. This requirement is hosted in a module on Canvas, COVID-19: Public Health Guidelines, Community Pledge and Policy Acknowledgment for Students – Spring 2021.

The module includes these elements, to be completed in the following order:

1. COVID-19: Public Health Guidelines: a PDF presentation from the Habif Health and Wellness Center with information about COVID-19; the University’s COVID-19 public health guidelines; procedures in the event that you feel unwell, have been diagnosed with COVID-19, or have been instructed to quarantine due to COVID-19 exposure; resources for communicating your boundaries and taking care of yourself; and campus resources.

2. Washington University Graduate, Professional and Undergraduate Student Community Pledge and Policy Acknowledgment: In this portion, you will review the University’s Community Pledge and Policy Acknowledgment in PDF format and submit your pledge and acknowledgment in the quiz section.

Reviewing the educational module and submitting the community pledge are required for all students enrolled in one or more fall semester courses to ensure you understand the university’s public health guidelines and policies, regardless of the location from which you will study.

You are required to review and complete the Canvas module before you come to campus next or by 11:59 PM on Thursday, January 21st, whichever date is first.

Students who do not complete the required module by Thursday, January 21st will have your card access to campus, including residential buildings, libraries, the rec center, dining facilities, and all other campus buildings turned off. In addition, you may also have a hold placed on your student record, which impacts your ability to adjust your course schedule or request an official transcript.

We appreciate your attention to this important requirement. It is a very different academic year, but we will make it all work, together.

Thank you,
